

eZ Platform and eZ Enterprise v1.6.0

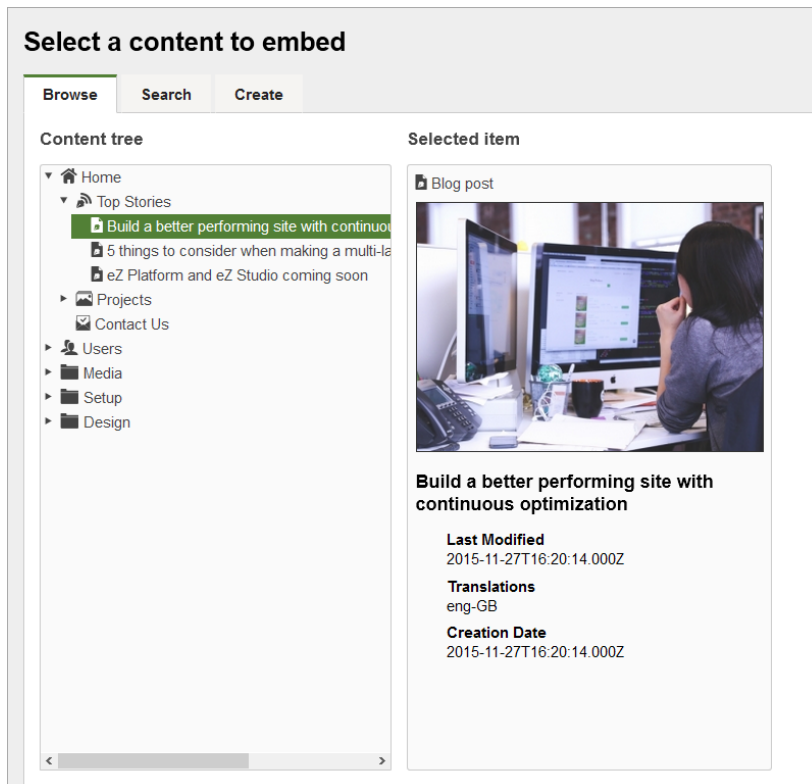

The 1.6.0 release of eZ Platform and Enterprise is available as of October 27th 2016.

Notable changes since v1.5.0

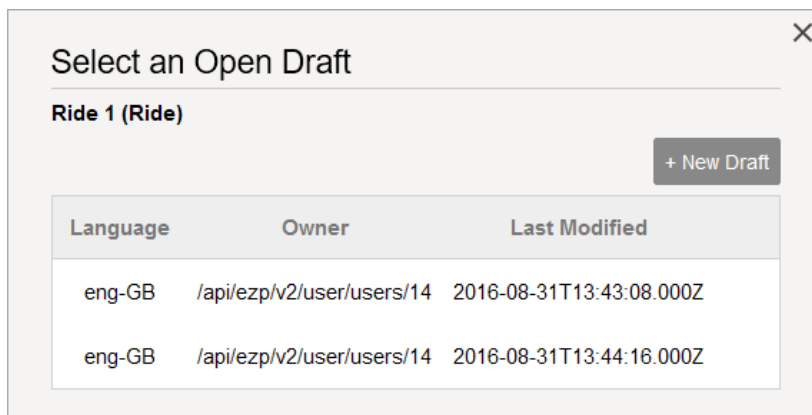

eZ Platform

The eZ Platform User Interface has been improved in many ways during this release, some visible and some more under the hood.

- Visual preview of the selected item in the UDW, as a first step in the revamp of the UDW finder. See EZP-25793 to see what is planned for the feature further along the line.

- EZP-26240: Server side content validation errors will now be reflected in the UI if the app validation is removed, providing more details.
- EZP-26191: Draft conflict screen on dashboard:

- EZP-26004 & EZP-26003: Search in PlatformUI:

Minor styling on different parts, stability on session and error management making the user interface feel more stable.

For developers there were also one such styling change, eZ logo now better matches the Symfony 2.8 web debug toolbar:

Under the hood, quite a bit of work happened at the kernel level:

- EZP-26057: Permissions improvement API (#1720) Implements a service and moves the API for permissions from the repository to that service
- EZP-26381: ContentViewBuilder will load the main location if none was asked
- REST:
 - EZP-26179: Refactored session REST actions to resolve UI stability issue due to session loss
 - Exposed "score" and "index" in REST SearchHits, e.g. `<searchHit score="1.0" index="installid1234567890">`
 - EZP-26472: Added previous exception to the REST exception output
 - EZP-26326: Implemented "Filter" and "Query" REST Query parameters to be in sync with the PHP API
 - Low-hanging-fruit: Made behat REST HTTP client use standard HTTP verbs for improved standards compliance

eZ Enterprise

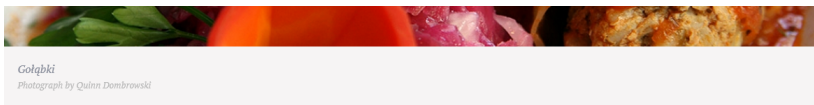

In eZ Enterprise, most of the new eZ Studio feature development is being worked on in a branch for the next December release, with the Form Builder as well as Date-based Publishing being the major features. As a result, this release is mostly focused on consolidation and stabilization of eZ Studio with a lot of bug fixes and enhancement brought to the product.

Demo Sites

Beyond eZ Platform and eZ Studio, each release is built and shipped together with our demo sites for both eZ Platform and eZ Studio. They offer ways to test and see best practices on how to use the platform. This time, since v1.5.1, we have a few noticeable improvement to the demo site:

- Selective rendering of "premium" content for registered end users only. Content is either rendered in full when the end user belongs to the "Members" group, or only as a teaser with a Register button:

Main Features

It is rich in meat, especially pork, chicken and beef (depending on the region), winter vegetables (cabbage in the dish bigos), and herbs. It is also characteristic in its use of various kinds of noodles the most notable of which are kluski as well as cereals such as kasha (from the Polish word kasza). Generally speaking, Polish cuisine is hearty and uses a lot of cream and eggs. The traditional dishes are often demanding in preparation. Many Poles allow themselves a generous amount of time to serve and enjoy their festive meals, especially Christmas eve dinner (Wigilia) or Easter breakfast which could take a number of days to prepare in their entirety.

History

Polish-style pickled cucumber (ogórek kiszony) is a variety developed in the northern Europe. It has been exported worldwide and is found in the cuisines of many countries. It is sour but tends to be seasoned differently. It is usually preserved in wooden barrels. A cucumber only pickled for a few days is different in taste (less sour) than one pickled for a longer time and is called ogórek małosolny, which means "lightly salted cucumber". Another kind of pickled cucumber, popular in Poland, is ogórek konserwowy (preserved cucumber) which is rather sweet and vinegary in taste, due to different composition of the
